

Cover Story

Cover Story Education and the election 2015 – what now?

The dust has settled on the Conservative Party's shocking majority win, but the future for education in the UK is far from certain. Peter Downes highlights the key issues for school leaders, this September and beyond.
p16

REGULARS

Editorial	1
Results day 2015: The Govian vision takes hold
Points	4
Parliament approves first wave of new free schools; rise in parents taken to court for child's truancy; research finds not enough schools training teachers to code; and more.
Trends	8
Is it time to end compulsory Christian worship in schools? Plus, what can be done to prevent wider prejudices from manifesting themselves in the classroom?

Report Update	24
Our regular digest of important new documents and studies for school teachers.

FEATURES

Ofsted leadership guide 2015	16
Ann O'Hara reviews this year's major changes to the Ofsted inspection framework and procedures, and examines the implications for forward-thinking school leaders.
How to improve poor teaching without alienating staff	38
A top-down, authoritarian approach to observations and performance management can be hugely discouraging for teachers. Marcella McCarthy offers an alternative.

Students designing their own learning spaces 46

Teacher Juliette Heppell teams up with pupils at a multi-ethnic London comprehensive to turn their dream classroom into a wonderful reality.

Developing a culture of challenge 52

Stretching pupils in their learning involves more than a few extension activities for the most able. The starting point, says Paul Trainor, is a classroom climate where making mistakes and being stuck are central to progressing learning.

Meet, eat, drink and learn: Teaching job skills in the nation's pubs 58

Jo Andrew's innovative new programme is giving young people the skills they need to find and develop a useful and rewarding career – and it's all taking place in a pub. Sarah Frossell reports.

Preventing the radicalisation of young people online 65

The internet has become a powerful tool for extremists to spread hatred and propaganda. Brian Durrant outlines the steps school leaders can take to safeguard their pupils online, in accordance with the latest government guidance.

When students self-harm 70

Do your staff know how to support a child who harms him or herself? Alison Williams highlights the importance of a safe, nurturing environment, underpinned by clear policies and procedures.

PRIMARY FILEKeeping one step ahead of SEN 80

Suzanne O'Connell meets the SENCo of a successful primary school to find out how their SEN provision has developed in line with the government's reforms.

Creative approaches to teaching texts from the past 84

How can we enable all children to access and enjoy the unfamiliar language and structures of literary heritage texts, as demanded by the new primary curriculum? Bob Cox shares his approach.

Manager's Briefcase – Coordinating an effective response to self-harm 91

A selection of documents to help shape your school's policy and procedure in response to the alarming rise in self-harm among young people.

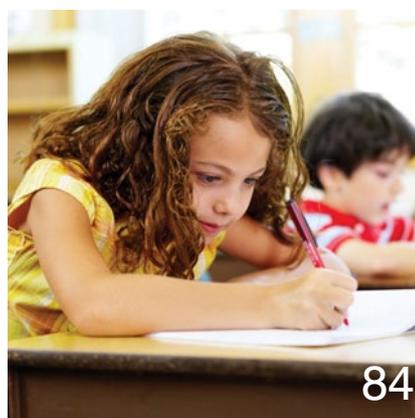

38

52

70

84

Editorial Office

Editor
Howard Sharron

PRODUCTION EDITOR
Maisie Gould

DESIGN MANAGER
Devinder Sonsana

ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT
0121 224 7590/91

MARKETING DEPARTMENT
0121 224 7580

CUSTOMER SERVICES
0121 224 7599

Company registration number 02445043
© School Leadership Today 2015
ISSN 2040-1310

No part of this publication may be reproduced, copied or transmitted in any form or by any means.

School Leadership Today is an independent magazine. The views expressed in signed articles do not necessarily represent those of the magazine.

The magazine cannot accept any responsibility for products and services advertised within it.

Contact us
School Leadership Today is published
by Imaginative Minds,
309 Scott House, Gibb Street,
Birmingham,
B9 4DT

■ Tel. 0121 224 7599
■ Fax. 0121 224 7598
■ www.teachingtimes.com